I have a new Dell Inspiron i7520 with 13.04 installed and I would like to upgrade it to 13.10. I have the ISO image file of 13.10 here. I can use the option Upgrade Ubuntu in Ubuntu 13.04 Software Updater app, but then there is a prompt saying: System is running in low-graphics mode. Previous state was: 0xb8000ff0 NVidia, VESA. The lines above appear as soon as the Ubuntu loading screen appears (1-3 minutes of the installation time). How can I deal with this "low graphics mode"? I can also use the option Upgrade Ubuntu from Ubuntu Software Center app, but I can not find the 13.10 option in the menu. Thanks. A: Since you have 12.04 and you do not have any other distribution installed (only Mint), you can upgrade it to 13.10. First, select Upgrade Ubuntu, then just click next (no need to wait for it). Also, in this case, your Ubuntu Software Center will have 13.10 in the menu at the upgrade option, which you can select and Upgrade to 13.10. Depending on your computer, the process can take between 30 minutes to 1 hour. Digitised data: there must be more to it than just a nice way to store it for example.
